Jajean Weathers, 9, sits on the lap of a family friend, Dennis English, of San Bruno, at San Francisco Airport, after she and her 10-year-old brother Michael Joseph returned from Hawaii.

Airport Reunion Ends on Sour Note

By BOB PETERSON The hoemcoming for a Pacifica brother and sister, who had captured the hearts of many in the Bay Area because of their stowaway trip to Hawaii, had an O. Henry ending early Tuesday at San Francisco International

Airport. What had been anticipated as a joyous reunion after the storybook-like excursion of fun, frolic and adventure ended on a sour note when the youths were tied to an alleged theft of jewelry and other items aboard the returning United 747

The unexpected turn-ofevents was first made known to Charles and Marie Weathers, of 631 Brighton Road, Pacifica, parents of the wayward Michael Joseph Weathers. 10, and Jajean Weathers, 9. about midnight Monday by United's Operations Chief of Passenger Service Jim Chapman.

Mr. and Mrs. Weather had been sitting in the loung area at Gate 25 as reporters and cameramen converged around the plane's exit aisle awaiting the youngsters return.

The airport terminal's intercom suddenly requested Waethers' presence at a central desk. He similingly left his seat. When he returned his expression had turned to that of disbelief. They said my two children were involved in a robbery in-flight of other passengers' belong-ings.' said Weathers' incredulously. 'They don't want them to come through the passenger terminal. They want to bring them through a separate gate. I told them that if something is wrong. I want the press to be there.

Chapman confirmed only that he had spoken with Weathers. He would not comment on what was said. Moments later, he and two San Mateo County Sheriff's deputies entered the returning aircraft. None were seen again by the press, nor was any explanation of the alleged incident offered. Passengers filed off the plane. Cameras were zeroed in on all youngsters coming off. Bul none were recognized as the Weathers children.

One passenger, who identified himself as Bob McCormack of Santa Cruz, told reporters that stewardesses with flashlights looked around all seats in the plane.

McCormack said he sat in a seat near the Weathers' children and that they were being questioned about the disappearance of "missing valuables" allegedly taken during the flight from Honolulu to San

Mr. and Mrs. Weathers were escorted onto the plane, where they remained for more than an hour. The press was barred.

When Weathers came out he held a scrap of paper, on which were written several names, including Lee C. Pointer of the FBI, Sheriff's Deputy James R. Burns and United's Roger Valencia.

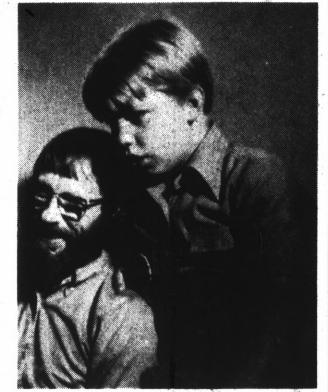

Weathers said the children "were being detained in connection with a robbery in flight.' He did not elaborate.

He said both of his children were crying.

It wasn't until nearly 2 a.m. that both parents and children came out alone, did some specifics

BART Test a 'Success'

Despite a computer break-down that stranded a Bay Area Rapid Transit official in the Trans-Bay tube for almost an hour, the fact that tests started almost two hours late and that 14 cars had to be taken out of service for one reason or another, last Saturday's safety test of the rapid transit system was deemed a

General manager Larry Dahms said throughout the day-long testing, by BART and Public Utilities Commissioners, not less than 36 trains were running throughout the 75 mile Bay Areawide track system - from East Bay points to San Francisco and Daly City and

When the central computer broke down, as a result of a measuring device short circuiting, it stopped traffic on the entire system and standed BART Director James Hill under the Bay

Those trains that had to be removed suffered mechanical breakdowns such as brakes dragging, electical shorts and blown fuses, a BART spokesman reported.

But this was the first time the complete line was in use and such breakdowns could be expected, Dahms said.

Dahms called the safety part of the check a success and predicted the system would go into full Oakland-Daly City operation by Sept. 16 — about four years behind schedule.

A report from the PUC on the tests was expected by Aug. 16, it was understood.

And, most disappointing to police, they say that San Mateo County's juvenile rehabilitation programs are not working and should be reviewed.

This "turnstile system" of releasing a juvenile almost as soon as he is arrested by authorities has greatly contributed to the rate of recidivism among Daly City's criminal youth, according to three law enforcement officers contacted by the Post this past week.

The three - detectives Harry Lax, Ed Jensen and San Mateo Crime Prevention Unit leader Steve Lowe think those youth who are known habitual burglars should be punished.

So bad has the problem concerning "repeaters" become in Daly City that police think they can "clean up at least half of the city's residential burglaries with the arrest and detention of about two dozen youth.

Other cities on the Peninsula, and juvenile authorities themselves, have claimed their methods of retraining and rehabilitating youth offenders is paying off.

By placing these youth back in their neighborhoods it creates a healthy environment for them and contributes to getting the youth back on the straight and narrow path, some authorities claim.

It is also far cheaper than incarcerating them. "This may be true," Lax

Supervisors Consider Regional Agency Bill

Board of Supervisors, apparently split over endorsement of Assembly Bill 2040 to create a regional planning agency, had scheduled a full discussion of the matter

Supervisor Robert St. Clair was ready to vote on the bill at this week's board meeting.

He moved that the board take a position to oppose the bill, which would ultimately consolidate the present planning responsibilities and authority of the Association of Bay Area Governments, Metropolitan Transportation seconded St. Clair's motion Commission, the Bay Area

The San Mateo County Sewage Services Agency, the Bay Conservation and Development Commission and the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District.

St. Clair contended the 'real guts have been removed" when an amendment to the bill was adopted eliminating the provision which would have given the new agency (Bay Area Planning Agency) authority to veto local actions which it found to be inconsistent with its areawide plan.

Louanne Heath

The local Girl Scout Council, which has just wound up a successful Day Camp program focusing upon Scandanavia, is all set to greet returning girls and new Brownies and scouts when next month rolls around.

The service team, always the backbone of any successful scouting association, is impressive looking. Many familiar faces will be returning to the unit and several new names have been added to the prestigious list of volunteers.

Mrs. Margaret Connolly is the association chairman, and, since she is also head of the Friends of the Library uou can imagine what an efficient and effective administrator she is! Working with Mrs. Connolly in the scouting program are Mrs. Margaret Kachur, assistant association chairwoman for finance; Mrs. Judy Edler, of South San Francisco is the chairwoman of the badge depot; Mrs. Mary Ann Dale is the camp coordinator; Mrs. Donna Barnes, director of consultants; Mrs. Virginia Nowicki, nominating and referral committee chairwoman; Mrs. Roz Morino, publicity chairwoman; Mrs. Shirley Figone, registrar and Mrs. Emma Pina, uniform exchange chairwoman.

New to the service team for the fall will be Mrs. Nancy Appling of Hillsborough, field coordinator; Mrs. Janice Pettey, a professional scouter from the Brisbane office, field staff; Mrs. Pat LeBlanc, city-wide cookie chairwoman and Mrs. Lynne Bolton, city-wide calendar chairwoman; Mrs. Becky Burke, Scoutlook Editor; Mrs. Caroline Futrell. special events chairwoman and Mrs. Virginia Rusting, training coordinator.

Mrs. Bolton, the calendar chairwoman, is looking forward to brisk sales of the 1975 edition of the Girl Scout Calendar since a local troop is being featured for one of the Current chairman of the system, Chandler, pointed out advantages of sharing in the library system's $100,000 in programing. Most of the funds come from various state and federal grants, he said. The city would receive $10,000 in direct benefits.

The occasion was a joint study session in the Library Board and the City Council.

Among the advantages pointed out by Chandler were the sharing of books by the different libraries, a daily delivery system among libraries, reference coordination among libraries, and a motion picture film collection. In addition, the system has a $35,855 Spanish program which would provide South San Francisco with a bookmobile

Library Board President F. A. Frank expressed fear of possible loss of autonomy for his city. Other board members were concerned over unforseen expenses.

Frank added that his board did not know enough about the system to make a final decision.

In other matters Library Administrator Robert S. Alvarez said he will restore the number of hours worked weekly on the library's local history collection.

The number of hours library employe Linda Kauffman worked on the collection was cut from 21 to six in early July when City Manager Ed Klario asked that $30,000 be cut out of the $70,000 part-time employe budget.

Pay Raise for Health Chief

Dr. Bradley C. Brownson, who was head of community medicine for the San Mateo County Department of Health and Welfare, has become the second highest salaried employe in county government.

The Board of Supervisors approved a resolution July 30 naming Brownson director of health care services at a salary of $44,604 a year, a 21 per cent increase over what he had been receiving.

Under his new title, Brownson will be in charge of health care services at Chope Community Hospital, of all outpatient services of the Health and Welfare Department, and will direct the organization and implementation of the demonstration program for decentralized health care in the Sequoia Hospital District area of south San Mateo County.

Only County Manager M. D. Tarshes, who is paid $46,920 a year, will be above Brownson in salary. The salary for Brownson's direct boss, County Director of Health and Welfare Dr. George Pickett is $44.352. However, Pickett noted, he and Tarshes receive approximately 16 per cent in additional fringe benefits of health care, hospitalization and pension which is not included in Brownson's salary under a direct contract with

NELL NORTON

Good morning, good cooks.

My Webster's dictionary gives the following definition of carrot: carrot n. 1. a plant of the celery family, with a fleshy orange-red foot. 2. the root, eaten as a vegetable.

Are you surprised to hear the carrot is a member of the celery family? Here's surprise number two, instead of using this fleshy orange-red root as a vegetable, this next recipe calls for it to be grated and used as the main ingredient in a coke, A large, spicy, fruit-type cake which was tested and tasted by some of my friends at St. Andrews and pronounced . . . delicious.

My thanks to Lorrayne Page who lives in San Francisco, for sharing this fine recipe with us. CARROT CHIFFON CAKE

2 cups flour

2 teaspoons soda

2 teaspoons cinnamon

2 teaspoons baking powder 1/2 teaspoon salt

11/2 cups oil

2 cups sugar

4 eggs

2 cups grated carrots 1 cup crushed drained pineapple

1 cup chopped nuts

Sift together the two cups flour, two teaspoons each soda, cinnamon and baking powder, one-half teaspoon salt.

In large mixing bowl beat together the one and one-half cups oil and two cups sugar. Beat in the four eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Blend in the sifted dry ingredients. Last of all fold in the two cups grated carrots (grated very fine), one cup well drained crushed pineapple and the one cup chopped nuts.

Pour into an ungreased 10-inch, tube pan and bake in 350-degree oven for 50 minutes or until it tests done when a

Cool in upright pan on cake rack about 15 minutes. With a spatula loosen cake around edges. Place rack over top of cake, invert pan and rack together; then place rack on table. Lift off pan. Cool completely before frosting. CREAM CHEESE FROSTING

3 ounces cream cheese

2 tablespoons butter

½ pound sifted confectioners sugar

1 teaspoon vanilla

½ teaspoon rum or rum flavoring (optional)

In small mixing bowl cream the three ounces cream, cheese and two tablespoons butter. Slowly add the half pound powdered sugar and beat until creamy. Blend in the one teaspoon vanilla.

Protect Yourself When Buying Swimming Pool

By LORENE BEASLEY Editor of BBB Barometer

With more leisure time and the rise in affluence of the American wage earner thousands of Americans are becoming pool owners.

An in the ground pool is a continuing investment. Besides adding value to your property it should last a life time. However, besides your initial expenditures you may want extra accessories. Proper upkeep is expensive and there are other costs such a higher taxes and utility bills.

The main advantage of an above ground pool is its relatively low cost. In San Mateo County, as in many other areas, these pools are classed personal property and are not taxed. The maintenance costs are low and if you move it can be taken with you.

Be suspicious when a pool is advertised at a ridiculously low price. If a pool salesman discourages you from buying the advertised pool and encourages you to buy a much more expensive ards. one you may become the victim of a bait and switch scheme. If you fall for it, you will spend more money than you planned for what may starting and completion date turn out to be an inferior and total price. product. A fast-buck operator may offer you a special price if you allow your pool to be used for display purposes. Usually, the pool is never shown and your special price is the regular price charged to all customers.

Another scheme is when a salesman offers refunds on the purchase price of a pool in return for names of potential buyers. In most cases, you will not receive any refunds and if you do, they will be insignificant. For protection when buying a pool:

Library Dollar

"As a taxpayer, I want to know what I get for my library dollar?

For an answer let us turn to the 1974 issue of "News Notes of California Libraries." During 1972-73, Daly City had a library tax rate of 14 cents which was close to the library tax rates of several California cities with 50,000 to 100,000 population.

However, the size in square miles of the area that was taxed for Daly City library support is seen to be woefully small when compared to other cities, and the assessed valuation in Daly City is smaller than that of most of the cities of the same size. This means the Daly City Public Library has less money to operate on than those in Daly

This condition plus the newness of the Daly City Public Library has resulted in a book collection that is smaller than that in the libraries of 35 of the 37 cities in the same class. This is also true of the staff Daly City's libraries operate with a smaller staff than most other libraries.

This situation is not likely to change. It is simply one of the facts of life. Daly City has a low assessed valuation and a small area for a tax base. What do we do with the funds that we do have is a much more valid question.

THE "NEW NOTES" show that in 1972-73, Daly City Public Library had 97,617 books which represents an increase of 81,617 books in 14 years. Besides books, on June 30, 1973 Daly City owned 4,048 phonograph records; 4,664 pamphlets; 3,854 pictures, prints or photographs; 688 reels of film and 529 microfilms of periodicals and newspapers. Fourteen years ago it had none of these things. Few library collections have grown so rapidly.

During the 14-year period Daly City has built the Westlake Library and the Bayshore Library and is now building the Serramonte Library. Few cities have acquired so much space in such a short period of time.

Other facts gleaned from "News Notes" show that 10 of those 35 city libraries that have a collection that is larger than that in Daly City have a smaller circulation. This means two things. The people of Daly City use their library and therefore derive benefit from their library tax and in the Daly City Public Library they find the reading and reference materials they need.

The Daly City Public Library progresses along a plan that was formulated and is updated by the Library Board and approved by the City Council. As a result from a 1972 survey that was funded by the Peninsula Library System, the Library Board and the staff know that there are areas that must be improved. To make improvements is part of a plan that is being implemented as rapidly as

Schools Need Financial Aid, CTA Director Says

Skyrocketing inflation will seriously cripple many local school districts unless the Legislature provides more state funds or eases local income controls, Jack D. Rees, executive director of the California Teachers Association (CTA), warned last week in Burlingame.

'We foresee larger class sizes, fewer materials, supplies and services for the pupils, and restive, underpaid teachers unless something is done to prevent local school districts from being pauperized in inflation, Rees declared. He said the problem can be solved in a number of ways:

—A massive increase in state support, from the estimated $392 million surplus expected in the state trea--Passage of SB 1592

(Dills), now before the Leg-islature, which would add some $15 per pupil in equalization aid on an a.d.a. basis from the state support program. However, this does high income districts.

-Relaxing of income controls for the middle and high wealth school districts so they can take greater advantage of increases in assessed valuation without raising tax rates, not now possible under current (SB90 and AB 1267) income controls.

Ideally, Rees stressed, all three suggestions should be adopted to alleviate the hardships caused by runaway inflation, not foreseen when the SB 90 and AB 1267 school support-property tax relief measures were adopted.

SB 90 and AB 1267 were adopted in 1972 and '73 infla-5.5 per cent, so controls were put in the measures to limit the middle and higher income districts at this and even smaller revenue increases. Now that the cost of living has been skyrocket-eeway. Rees stressed that CTA is not proposing that the substantial 1973-74 roll-backs in school property taxes be negated. That, he said, is not possible under SB 90, but the Legislature could make the rate of the second-year rollback smaller to provide more funds to help the local districts. And this must be done before the last week in August, so local tax rates can be adopted.

However, Rees also stressed, the ideal method would be for the state to significantly increase support for all school districts by tapping the expected $392 million revenue surplus.

"Unfortunately, without legislative relief many school districts will be able ers and other employees less than 5 per cent. Some will receive no increase, in spite of a 10 per cent spiral in the cost of living staring all citizens in the face. In other words, without a significant increase in state aid, the relaxing of income controls for middle and high wealth districts, or both, programs for pupils will have to be cut, and school employees will receive inadequate cost-ofliving increases. Thus they will be subsidizing education. This is neither wise if we want quality education nor fair to teachers and other school employees," Rees concluded.

The M.S.T.P. is directed by Donna Flanagan and three bilingual assistant teachers: Felix Perez, Rosemaria Lacavo, and Suana Gilman. The teachers are supervising 50 tutors in small group and individualized instruction.

Each tutor has three or four students assigned for instruction in the specified areas that show a need for development. Each student was tested during the first week of the program to determine the areas which the student should concentrate his or her efforts, according to program lead-

The program is concentrating on teaching, reading. and math skills. The school is using SCORE, a phonics reading program developed within S.S.F.U.S.D. by two psychologists and a reading teacher SCORE was designed for use by tutors on an individualized instructional setting. It has built-in, decisionmaking features that automatically adjusts to teach only the skills needed by that particular student.

The amount of practice is also automatically adjusted to the needs of the student. SCORE has a built-in reinforcement feature which lets the student know every time he or she has a correct response.

Along with SCORE the school is using IPI (Individualized Prescribed Instruction), a math program designed to teach at the individual student's growth level. Supplementary material by SRA is also being used in reading and math. Along with this the tutors and teachers have made games that correlate to both the reading and math programs.

The tutors are receiving three hours of related instruction each week, which allows them time for preparation and discussion of problems they might be having with the children. Spencer Rundberg, counselor for the Neighborhood Youth Corps, has been providing coordination for the Martin Program and counseling services for the tutors.

School Improvement Plans Backed

The Laguna Salada School Board Thursday night approved in concept, plans for improving four school sites, which would provide added play areas.

Most of the funds will come from City of Pacifica's federal revenue-sharing funds. Plans for the sites will be forwarded to the Pacifica City Council which, upon approval, will call for bids where necessary

The projects were reported upon by School Supt. James Brien, who had met with four different parent committees. Many of the parents appeared at Thursday night's meeting to press the project.

Plans approved included: Sanchez School, $20,000 to improve two basketball courts, and the ballfield. where decomposed granite will be placed in the infield, and turf on the outfield. ✓ San Andreas School, $10,000, plus funds raised by the Parents' Club, bringing the project to almost $20,000 Two ball fields will be installed.

Pedro Valley, $20,000, to fill and drain the low portions of the playfield, which has been partially under water for half the year, in the past, and to install a baseball diamond.

Pacific Manor, to add to the playground equipment and grade the ball field. No money had been appropriated, but parents have raised $2,000 in honor of Mary Jane Drury, upon her retirement last year as longtime principal.

At its annual budget hearing, the school district approved a budget which resulted in a virtually unchanged tax rate $2.7793, compared to $2.7774 last

Trustees set up an Aug. 21 meeting of a joint city-school ad hoc committee to discuss the after-school seventheighth grade program. Inflation threatened the program with a cut, but trustees now believe they can carry it on with little change.

Mike Marshall

That newsprint shortage has done us in again, and we're all going to have to be patient. You may remember we recently began to recite a story about Dodger Super Reliever Mike Marshall, and were cut off in mid-sentence. If you're still interested, following is what was snipped!

As you probably know, Marshall doesn't pay much attention to conventions. One of them he ignores is the time-honored practice of wearing a sweatshirt under the regular baseball shirt. He never did it even in chilly

Dodger management frowned on it when he first reported, but Marshall, a serious student of kinesiology (study of the principles of mechanics and anatomy in relation to human movement), explained to them that a sweatshirt only absorbs sweat, and that when a pitcher returns to the dugout - especially if his team is at bat for a long time - the sweatshirt cools off, which in effect is the same as placing a chilled cloth on the arm, which, of course, cools it off. So what Marshall does when he reaches the dugout is dry his arm off with a warm towel, and in that way keeps his arm supple.

Marshall used another unusual technique to develop his two different kinds of screwballs. He figured out what muscles would be used for each pitch, and in what ways they would be used. Then he worked out with a steel ball, holding the ball in his hand and simulating the throwing of the two screwballs, using the proper muscles in the proper ways, and thus building them up, which is why he has been able to avoid arm trouble despite throwing such armstraining pitches. That and the fact, notes a Dodger official, that he has a great body and phenomenal arm to begin with.

FOOTNOTE to the Marshall story. Teammate Andy Messersmith, a Cal graduate and a fellow intellectual, has reportedly been taken by some of Marshall's pitching philosophy, and while Messersmith's still wearing his sweatshirt, it may not be a coincidence that he's the leading Dodger starting hurler this year, and has completed far more games than the other rotation men.

Last year our correspondent in Reno reported that Harrah's Club always kept a case of Falstaff in the cooler for frequent visitor Dizzy Dean, possibly the only man in Nevada who still drank that particular brand. The same correspondent reports that there's still a case of Fallstaff in the cooler, which probably won't disappear until the next inventory. Until then, it seems an appropriate minor

Now that Joe Rudi is no longer the most underrated player in the majors (he's been so often mentioned as such that he is no longer underrated), our vote would have to go for his teammate, lefty reliever Paul Lindblad. Linblad doesn't have the win-loss record of Rollie Fingers, for example, or the number of saves. But that has been a combination of bad luck and the seeming unwillingness of Alvin Dark to depend on anyone but Fingers in the close games. But Linblad has the lowest earned run average in the majors (for a regularly appearing pitcher), at this writing somewhere around 1.10, and has pitched almost as many innings as Fingers, and many of the other more heralded relief hurlers.

INCIDENTALLY, Rudi reminds us of the last great highly publicized underrated player, outfielder Tommy Henrich of the Yankees. Like Rudi, he was a sometimes first baseman, and like Rudi, he was overshadowed by another great, highly publicized outfielder — Joe DiMaggio. Actually, Henrich had more impressive batting statistics than Rudi (like Rudi, he was a great defensive outfielder), but then his competition from DiMaggio was stiffer than Rudi's is from Reggie Jackson. You anti-Woman's Libbers should be gratified to know that lady tennis star Lesley Hunt of the Golden Gaters cried in a recent match with Rosie Casals when a decision was made against her by a referee; lost her composure, lost that game, the next one, then, having fallen apart, had to be substituted for. Could anyone imagine, say, Pete Rose losing his composure over a bad called strike, weeping at home plate, and then striking out, getting hit on the head by a fly ball as he sobbed in left field, and being sutstituted for in the seventh

Come-from-behind victories were the theme of last week's Daly City Recreation Division high school softball

The Ram-Rods recovered from a first inning 7-0 deficit to record an 8-7 victory over the Cubs.

The Ram-Rods scored two runs in the third, fifth, and sixth innings, and they finally tied the game in the seventh inning. Victory was realized in the ninth inning when Tim Summers scored on Dan Giese's sacrifice fly.

Dave Boasso led the Ram-Rod offense with three doubles, a Bruce run and four RBIs. Ernie Garcia, Ed Cruz, and Boasso led a tight Ram-Rod defensive by turning over three double plays. The Bud Bums overcame a -0 deficit to beat the Untouchables 7-3. The Bum's scored five runs in the fourth inning to capture the lead. The rally was topped by Steve Sturgeon's long home

The Daly City Girl Scout Association's annual day camp, this year was held July 29 through Aug. 2 at Junipero Serra Park in San Bruno. The camp was planned by a full committee of volunteers, headed by Camping Coordinator Mrs. Mary Ann Dale.

This year Mrs. Carole Ann Scott was Camp Director, with Mrs. Elaine McDowell as Program Director and Mrs. Virginia Rusting as her assistant. Mrs. Shirley Figone was the business manager.

Camp theme was "Sail to Scandanavia" with each unit exploring the culture and cuisine of a different Scandanavian country. Special camp recipes were prepared by Mrs. Rusting.

Camp crafts were extensive but aimed at the Girl Scout's level of accomplishment with older girls doing linoleum blocks and younger girls enjoying the creativity of bread dough flowers.

The traditional camperaft skills of lashing, whittling; hiking, as well as outdoor cooking were adapted to the Scandanavian theme.

far collected from deceased urging the California Legishumans more than 330 eyes, lature to consider adopting heart valves, 16 hearts, 10 bone skull plates and 12 square feet of human skin. To some that may sound like gruesome medical news. But to transplant surgeons, the Human Tissue Bank is a centralized and better coordinated process for gathering human tissue to be used in life saving transplant operations. The transplant operations also restore sight and hearing, replace fractured or destroyed bone and badly burned skin

The success of the new Human Tissue Bank is apparent. It has quickly evolved into the largest such facility in the world, according to Dr. Mansfield F. W. Smith, himself an ear transplant surgeon who was appointed chairman of the bank's board of directors.

"The Bay Area Human Tissue Bank was organized by transplant surgeons to fulfill the needs of transplant patients," Dr. Smith said.

Tissue from deceased persons is presently being collected for the bank at 35 cooperating Bay Area hospitals. Hospitals here on the Peninsula involved in the project include Kaiser Hospitals in Redwood City and South San Francisco, Stanford University Hospital, and Veterans Administration Hospital in Palo Alto.

Dr. Smith hopes to eventually involve more than 200 Northern California hospitals in the project.

"The Bay Area Human Tissue Bank is a single, unifred, regional approach to the problems of organ and tissue procurement," he

The human tissue, in turn, is distributed from the central bank facility to patients in need of transplanted tissue not only in the Bay Area but throughout the U.S.

Surgeons throughout the U.S. are closely monitoring the Bay Area facility. according to Dr. Smith. The local Human Tissue Bank might be used as a prototype to a "system of combined tissue banks across the United States," he added.

A recent study concluded that eleven such human tissue banks might be adequate to supply the organs and human tissue needed each year for transplant operations in the U.S., Dr. Smith

The San Jose facility includes four anatomical technicians whose job is (wofold.

First the technicians try to receive authorization to remove human tissue from deceased persons.

If permission is authorized either by the donor prior to death, or by the next of kin of the donor after the patient dies - the anatomical technicians move quickly to the hospital or mortuary to remove the donated human tissue.

It is certainly not an easy job, admits Martha Melcher, one of the four technicians at the bank.

The most convincing factor, she noted, is that many parts of a dying person's body can be transplanted into the living bodies of others. There is no greater gift than such a "gift of life." she said.

"Seventy per cent of the people (who she asks to donate either their own human tissue or that of a deceased next of kin) say yes," she said.

But despite the ambitious efforts of the Bay Area Human Tissue Bank, the amount of human tissue gathered by the bank still falls miserably short of the present demand.

Only one quarter of the persons in need of a transplanted kidney in Northern California received a kidney

Granat's

Porcelain sculptor, Laszlo Ispanky, will visit Granat Bros. Aug. 13 from 1 to 5 p.m., according to W. McWhirter, President, Granat Bros. Stores.

Ispanky is noted internationally for his porcelain figurines. During his personal appearance at Granat's, he will hold informal discussions with visitors and share his ideas on the art of porcelain design. He also will be honored with an award for his contributions to the culture of this country.

Ispanky sculptures in porcelain are found in leading museums and galleries and in distinguished collections throughout the world.

On display at Granat's will be a distinctive selection of Ispanky limited and unlimited edition figurines, including five new sculptures by the artist. In his studio in Pennington. N.J., Ispanky porcelains are created in both limited editins, ranging in price from $350 to $35,000, and unlimited editions, from approximately $75 to $175.

Sausalito writer Philip Kaufman describes his outdoor adventure film, "The White Dawn," now playing on the Peninsula as "about life's precarious balance. There are demons lurking underneath at all times. For the Eskimos, they're threatened by not knowing how to deal with modern society.

The young director worked with James Houston, an expert on Eskimos, who wrote the book with Tom Rickman from which the script was written. Houston left Toronto and served in Alaska for 12 years as a civil administrator. He was one of the first white men to bring Eskimo carvings south to America and Canada, having studied print making in Japan and teaching it to the Eskimos.

'About Life's Precarious Balance'

Shooting took place under the most dangerous and harrowing circumstances only 1,000 miles below the North Pole in the frozen wilderness of the Canadian Arctic Archipelago. He spent four months there on Baffin Island where temperatures ranged from 15 degrees below zero to 15

Modern technology enables them to use snowmobiles in those areas where the temperature often dropped to 40 below zero but because the film is set in the 19th century, producer Martin Ransohoff imported dog teams and sleds that the young Eskimos had to be taught to use.

The story features Warren Oates, Timothy Bottoms and Lou Gosset as the first white men ever seen by Eskimos who rescue the stranded whalers and keep them alive for a year before killing them unexpectedly. "Only the young Eskimos speak English. The older tribesmen speak Eskimoian. They're by nature a warm, friendly people with each other, always touching and laughing and combing each other's hair.

But they are in great jeopardy as a race because sugar is getting into their diet and their teeth are falling out. Their survival is acute because the fish are being fished out and walruses are diminishing

"There are 75,000 Eskimos in all the world, fewer people than attend a tootball game. Where we were there are only 1,500. Many Eskimos inhabit the Russian Arctic. We found tuberculosis, coronary conditions and venereal disease to be rampant

'Alcohol has been legal for eight years and it is a real problem. It used to be banned by the Canadian government. But Eskimos are very vulnerable and are badly affected by liquor. Frobisher Bay is a dying community.

There have been few definitive films on Eskimos. One of the best feature films and the one that Kaufman studied was "Eskimo" made in 1932 by W. S. Van Dyke. In all aspects of tribal custom, the director asked the elders how they'd react to certain situations.

Transit Measure OK Seen

State Senate concurrence with a bill to allow San Mateo County voters to decide whether they wish to create a special transit district is expected this week in Sacramento.

If approved as anticipated, the bill would allow the county's citizenry to vote on such a measure in the Nov. 5

The bill was scheduled to be voted on by the Senate late last week.

The bill is co-sponsored by Assemblymen Dixon Arnett of Redwood City and Louis Papan of Daly

A similar bill, sponsored by Senator Arlen Gregorio of San Mateo. has been working its way through the Assembly but, according to him, "It's been sidetracked."

Gregorio says, "We'll use Dixon's bill instead."

According to Arnett, "I don't anticipate any problems getting it passed. The governor should sign it shortly thereafter. It will go to the county's Board of Supervisors the following week.'

Deadline for getting the measure on the November ballot is Aug. 15.

The purpose of the legislation is to allow the public to determine if a transit district ought to be created to provide the county with a vehicle to coordinate its transportation systems.

It would also aid in getting this county involved more intimately with Bay Area transit systems on a regional

Robberies Probed In County

A series of early-morning strongarm robberies in which the robber slugs his victims then makes off with their wallets or purses and jewelry are being investigated by police in mid and south San Mateo County areas.

Three of the robberies occurred during the past weekend in Burlingame, San Carlos and Menlo Park.

In Burlingame, Janice Hankins told police that she was struck on the back of the head about 2 a.m. Sunday by a man who made off with her purse containing about $200 after she got out of her car in an apartment parking area at 789 El Camino Real.

The attack was only two blocks from where Alton R. Gilvy was hit on the back of the head July 28 after getting out of his car in an apartment parking garage at 556 El Camino Real about 1:40 a.m. Gilvy said his wallet containing between $70 and

$80 was taken. In San Carlos, Robert L. Taylor, 51, a teamster, informed Policeman James McBride that he was hit in the face by a man at 4:30 a.m. Sunday after parking his car at his home, 459 Wellington Drive. The man took his wallet containing $75 to $90 cash and a $30 wristwatch, the victim related

Taylor told McBride that he noticed a car following his car as he drove home and that the other car's driver appeared to be a woman.

Ellen Mora shows her dog "Pax," which she says did not receive

A 22-year-old Burlingame woman is demanding an explanation from the Santa Clara SPCA for what she alleges was mistreatment of her pet dog during a stay at the animal shelter.

Ellen Mora charged that Pax, a five-year-old Australian sheep dog, had deep gashes in his throat and paws when she picked the dog up July 30.

All the wounds were infected and some had maggots, she said. "It didn't even have an antibiotic ment, which picks up strays, antibiotic shots. shot," Miss Mora added.

Miss Mora said the incident started about a month ago when she left Pax with friends in Los Altos, and the dog ran away. She received a notice July 26 that the SPCA had her pet.

was told only that he had a small laceration near his left eye, and that was all there was wrong with him, Miss Mora said, "But when I got home and started to give him a bath. I saw this deep. infected gash near the jugular vein on his neck. It must have been noticeable when they read his tag. She claimed that a San The harbor district Bruno veterinarian examexpended an average of ined the dog and found nearly $79,000 a year during gashes so deep in two front the 1963-66 period, while the paws that the bones were county average for 1966-69

Richard Dennen, director of the Santa Clara shelter, county's policy was status said today that it would appear that the dog's injuries may not have been noticed because of its long.

shaggy hair. He pointed out notes if there is any apparent that its owner had not discovered the injuries until she gave Pax a bath.

'We have 200 to 300 stravs here at all times," Dennen said, with 60 to 70 being brought in a day, and 50 to 70 more dogs turned over by owners as well as about 200 the long hair. We can't go cats a day — we handled over all the dogs every day. 80,000 animals last year.

Dennen said that if there is any evidence of major injury the dog is given antibotic shots, but otherwise Santa Clara Health Depart- strays are not usually given

Library Site Considered

A recommendation that the county acquire a site on Terra Nova Boulevard directly north of the Challenge Shopping Center in Pacifica as location for the Sanchez Branch Library was being considered Tuesday by the County Board of Supervisors.

In a report to the board, County Librarian James W Buckley said that the site, which would cost an estimated $150,000, is level and contains sufficient space for construction of a 11,500-sq.-ft. county branch library.

Buckley notes that it is believed the recommended location is the best of seven proposed sites because of accessibility, pedestrian and automobile traffic, adequate size for building and parking and proximity to the shopping

Tuesday's recommendation climaxed more than one year of searching since the Board of Supervisors authorized the appointment of a committee to recommend sites for a second branch library in Pacifica. The review was conducted by a staff committee in the County Library Deaprt-

Buckley requested that the board authorize negotiation for purchase of the property, direct the preparation of an acquisition environmental impact report and direct the preparation of preliminary building plans.

The best view in this $80,000 neighborhood costs $57,500.

And you can purchase it at 8-3/4%.* Impossible? Not now, but it soon will be as these three bedroom view condominiums atop the Mills Estate property will probably be sold out within a month. The reason - everything is here except the high price tag.

The view is the best on the North Peninsula. Your

Easy access to Highways 101, 280, and the train station makes commuting a snap. The space inside is as beautiful as the space outside. Plush carpeting, draperies, oven, range, refrigerator, washer/ dryer, dishwasher, and fireplace are all included. The recreation private balcony gives you a panoramic view of the Peninsula and San Francisco Bay. Above it all, and close to everything.
